Advisory

1. The rejections are proper for the reasons stated in the Final Action. The argument that Durrell disables a fuel line via valve(s) rather than the fuel pump itself disabled by an on-off control circuit is not persuasive because the claims are directed to a fuel pump arrangement functionality means and the valve(s) of Durrell is/are part of the fuel pump arrangement to switch off the functionality of the fuel pump under control of electronic logic and/or switch S1.
2. The argument that an unauthorized user could still operate the vehicle of Durrell by providing an alternate source of fuel to the pump is not persuasive because this is not precluded by applicant's claims. A thief could bypass the fuel pump arrangement.
